Official Title

Rural Entrepreneurship for Women in Agricultural Rural Development.

Summary

This project seeks to improve the livelihoods and economic well-being, particularly for rural women and local leaders in some of Colombia`s most fragile rural areas in Colombia.

Opportunity Background

This project seeks to improve the livelihoods and economic well-being, particularly for rural women and local leaders in some of Colombia`s most fragile rural areas.

Project activities include:

- (1) investing growth capital provided by the private sector to rural businesses, particularly women-led businesses;
- (2) training women champions in targeted rural areas on leadership skills (Fellows Program) to transform rural leaders into active agents of change; and
- (3) adapting non-traditional financial investment instruments structured to support targeted rural businesses with gender considerations and technical assistance needs, including identifying lessons learned.

Opportunity structure

The expected outcomes of this project include:

- (1) increased viability of rural businesses, particularly women-led businesses, in targeted areas of Colombia;
- (2) increased decision-making and influence by women entrepreneurs and leaders in rural business and community-led organizations in targeted areas, fostering population to build socio-economic environments conducive to economic and social well-being; and
- (3) effective financial investment instruments enhanced for rural businesses, particularly women-led businesses, in targeted areas of Colombia.
